The price fixed per volume by the last session of the Legislature has been objected to by a number of individuals who wished to purchase such numbers as could be sold from the above list. It would, perhaps, be well to reconsider that matter, as it is desirable to reduce such as are in large numbers on hand.

The exchanges received from other States have fallen off very much since November, 1863. More than one-third of the loyal States and Territories have failed to send any documents, whilst others forwarded very few. The journals, reports, and other documents of the last session of Congress have not yet come to hand. The remissness, or whatever may be the cause, accounts for the small acknowledgment for this year.

Care has always been taken on the part of the Librarians to send promptly and fully all the documents of State officers and the Legislature. During the year thirty States and Territories, including Canada, and eight literary institutions, have been supplied, making altogether in laws,

Ohio reports, documents, journals and statistics, bound and unbound, 660 volumes. A statement of what was thus provided by the Library is as follows:

A Condensed Statement of State Publications sent in Exchange by the Library to Loyal State Libraries and other Literary Institutions, from November 15, 1863, to November 15, 1864.

The House and Senate Journals of 1864, and State Agricultural Society Report, 1863, were not ready.

The stock of duplicate volumes which has been increasing for a number of years, now amounts to many hundreds. We would especially call the attention of the several library committees to the subject. The library has no use for them, and they are, by exposure and injury, becoming less valuable, and should be disposed of in some way. The present would be a favorable time to obtain a better price for them, if sold. Included in these duplicates are 140 volumes of the American State papers, quarto size, in excellent condition; and 200 volumes of octavo and smaller books, some of which are quite valuable English works, beside many others on the shelves in the library room which are not needed there. The value of so many hundred volumes should be turned to better account than to lie exposed to the damaging effects of weather and dust. We hope the subject will receive the attention it deserves.

The condition of several rooms used for storage of books has been very much improved by the removal of part into a secure room in the basement of the Capitol; and after selecting from an immense quantity of old reports, journals, and other matter, such as was deemed proper, the balance was considered of no further use, and being a great incumbrance to the rooms, was sold as waste paper, the proceeds of which is reported. The rooms are now accessible and better ventilated.

Several additional cases are greatly needed, similar to those now in use, which are so over-crowded that they can admit no more volumes.

The shelving lately put up in the library room is now all occupied and in some departments no space left for any addition of books.

The funds in hand of both departments of the library are presented in this report. We would respectfully ask an appropriation for the General Library equal in amount to that of 1864, and such an addition to the Law Library as you may deem sufficient.

The preceding pages exhibit correctly the additions to the library, and disbursement of its funds. The following presents the newspapers received by donation from their publishers; the titles of all the books purchased for cash or in trade; the donations, and the kind and number of publications from States and societies sent during the year, in exchange.

All being most respectfully submitted.

JOHN BROUGH, Governor,

W. W. ARMSTRONG, Sec'y of State.

S. G. HARBAUGH, Librarian,

Commissioners of Ohio State Library.
